Important Update: FinCEN RRE Rule

What Changed?

Late Friday, FinCEN issued new guidance following a federal court decision.

“Reporting persons are not currently required to file real estate reports with FinCEN and are not subject to liability if they fail to do so while the order remains in force.”

What This Means for You

- No FinCEN reporting is required at this time
- No customer information will be collected for the RRE Rule
- No liability for non-compliance while the order is in effect

Important Note

The status of the Residential Real Estate Reporting Rule (RRE Rule) is still evolving and may change.

What Happens Next?

- We are actively monitoring updates
- If the rule is reinstated, we will resume collecting required information
- Additional guidance will be provided if changes occur
